

2022 ANNUAL MEMBERSHIP ART SHOW MARCH 10 TO MARCH 31, 2022 PROSPECTUS

NORTHEAST TEXAS COMMUNITY COLLEGE, MT PLEASANT, TEXAS

Andrew Wages Juror

Growing up in Oklahoma, as a young child Andrew became captivated by the rolling hills near his family home, curiously climbing from one hill to another to see what awaited him on the other side. His interest developed quickly and by the age of twelve, he was already sketching the landscapes that dominated his dreams of becoming an artist. Encouraged by his teachers and parents, he began his journey at the Art Center College of Design in Hollywood, California at the age of 17. As a student, he graduated with honors. After a stint in the Army, he worked as a freelance illustrator in Dallas for thirty-five years, then turned his attention to fine art and teaching. As a painter, he describes his art as a reflection of both impressionism and realism.

Andrew was most influenced by 19th and 20th century masters such as Anders Zorn, Joaquin Sorolla y Bastida and John Singer Sargent. While studying at the art Center, he was heavily influenced by Nicolai Fechin who, to him was the consummate artist.

His plein air paintings have now allowed him to return to the outdoors that he loves and work less in his studio. His landscape painting carries a passionate quality, generating a strict representation of value and color, all the while searching for the variations of warmth and coolness in the shadows and in the light.

Working with a mixture of practical philosophy and skills acquired through years of formal training, self-discipline, and constant practice, Andrew has come to occupy a unique place in art circles of this area, where he regularly teaches a critiques class with local artist.

Andrew currently resides in Dallas, TX.
